☆☆☆ COULD YOU BE THE NEXT ☆☆☆ BRITISH TENNIS CHAMP?

Once again Britain has failed miserably to produce a Wimbledon Winner. Not since the legendary Fred Perry have we managed to produce a world beating item of leisure wear. Surely there must be a budding Borg or a potential Martina Navratilova out there somewhere. Try our simple quiz to find out whether you've got what it takes to become a top british seed

1. Do you look like :

- a. Jeremy Bates
- b. Jo Durie *
- c. Something remotely human

2. Do you consider tennis to be:

- a. One of the toughest and most demanding sports there is
- b. A game of skill and cunning for up to 4 players
- c. A game invented solely for poofs with rich parents

Arthur Ash

3. Does the word 'lob' bring to mind:

- a. One of the best shots played in tennis
- b. The shot you play when you're too fat to run
- c. An early morning bulge that has you limping across the landing to the bathroom.

4. What memories does Wimbledon's No.1 Court hold for you.

- a. The classic 1981

- quarter final between Borg and Connors
- b. Nastase entertaining the crowd with his playful antics
- c. Receiving 4 months community service for taking and driving away.

5. Your favourite tennis player is Steffi Graf, while your brother favours Monica Seles. Do you:

- a. Argue the respective merits of each player
- b. Refuse to speak to him until he comes to his senses
- c. Wait till he sits down for tea then creep up behind him and plunge a "Kitchen Devil" between his shoulder blades.

6. Have you ever been out with:

- a. Axl Rose
- b. Tom Cruise
- c. Cliff Richard (Although you were just good friends and you never got to see his knob)

7. What does the name 'Queens' mean to you;

- a. It's a club in London where you'll find all the top tennis players competing prior to Wimbledon
- b. It's a club in

- Brighton where you'll find a load of raving homos mincing on the dance floor
- c. It's a pub in Weatherfield where you'll find Liz and Jim McDonald fighting behind the bar

8. Boris Becker rings you to suggest a practice session together.

Ben "Backhand" Elton

Do you:

- a. Agree. It's not often you get the chance to practice with the best tennis player in the world
- b. Make some excuse about Ivan Lendl coming around later
- c. Refuse. Telling him you wouldn't be seen dead playing someone with ginger eyelashes. And certainly not someone who was half man/half pig

9. You are watching television as Miss Sabatini is about to serve for the Dot Cotton..... future champ?

match. Do you:

- a. Crouch behind the sofa - the tension is too much to bear.
- b. Sit back in your seat and admire the accuracy of her first service.
- c. Lie on the floor directly under the screen and try and get a good look at her sweaty knickers.

10. At school, what was the logo on your kit bag, was it:

- a. Nike. Just do it.
- b. Liverpool pride of Europe
- c. Sainsburys. Where good food costs less.

please note : those

Jo Durie

HOW DID YOU SCORE ?

of you who resemble Jo Durie should double their score as they are liable to compete in both men's and women's events.

MOSTLY A's

You're too good for the game and should take up a more manly sport instead, like Bowls or Darts you could even try a spot of Aussie rules Table Tennis.

MOSTLY B's

Face it, you'll never be the next Buster Mottram.

MOSTLY C's

Congratulations! You show all the right qualities needed to become a British champ. You're just about capable of beating some 8 year Old Venezuelan in the first round, thus guaranteeing you an interview with Des Lynam and an all star appearance on New Celebrity Squares or some cheesey game show hosted by Andrew O'connor.

12. THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WIMBLEDON.

1. It has the highest percentage of ugly bastards per head of population in the United Kingdom.
2. It also has one of the country's finest collections of wild animals. At Plough Lane to be precise.
3. Martina Navratilova has promised to make a dramatic exit from this years championships which are sadly her last by proposing to 'Lick' all her opponents on the centre court.

4. The Wombles once 70's TV stars still live on Wimbledon Common and now make a living by picking up and selling used condoms to passers by as those lovely throaty sweets 'Locketts'.

5. Despite protests from all sides, poor orphan children are used a cheap labour by the Wimbledon officials.

6. Cliff Richard is a big tennis fan and often it seems, plays against prostitutes in what is described as Pro Celebrity tournaments.

7. It's not surprising that very few young people take up tennis as a sport when the average life of a tennis net on a public park tennis court is about three minutes.

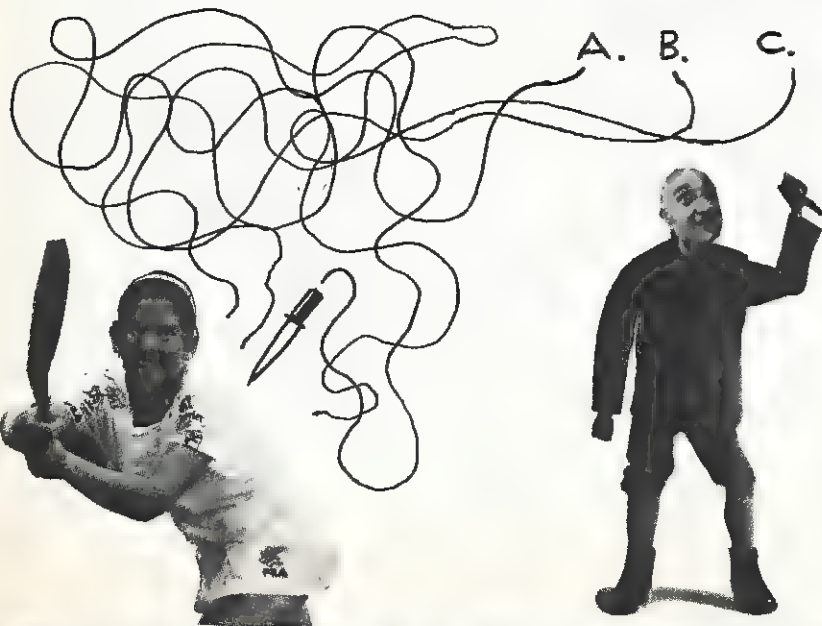

8. Dan Maskell used to piss in the Barley Water every year and could be heard chuckling as the player took huge gulps between sets.

9. That is of course Dan Maskell of Shropshire and not the Dan maskell who used to commentate every year - He used to shit in the Punch Bowl.

10. Stefi Graf paid seven thousand pounds to purchase the button off Cyril Smiths 501's.

11. Billy Jean King is another lady tennis player who has licked a few of her colleagues at Wimbledon.

12. The only way to get booking on a council tennis court during Wimbledon is to be related to the miserable old twat who smokes roll ups and is responsible for taking the money, you could try taking hold of his testicles with a pair of pliers although this doesn't always work.

Oh dear, our Serbian Nutter has lost his way. Can you help him place his dagger between the shoulder blades of Monica Seles.

TABLE TENNIS THE FACTS

NUMBER

Since it's invention sixty five years ago table tennis still remains the poor relation of tennis. This is due to a number of factors,

666

the most important being that table Tennis is fucking shite and you only play it either in a youth club as a way of trying to get your hand down some fit birds knickers or as you wait to go on the snooker table.

DEVIL

BEAST

Or on holiday pissed up against some smarmy Greek looking cunt who has you running around the table like a dog with two dicks whilst you wait for it to stop raining. Despite topping the sport Chester Barnes and

PAUL MERSON

Desmond Douglas made about thirty quid each from their table tennis careers.

SOME POPULAR TABLE TENNIS PHRASES.

"Who's stood on this fucking ball?"

"You can get the dent out by holding it over a boiling kettle"

"This bat's shit"

"Come on 'Bollocks' it's my service."

★★★★★★★★★★★★

PRISON

There is an association that caters for people who want to play a lot of Table Tennis, it's called the Prison Service and you can join by.....

MR. BIG

walking into your local bank with a Sainsburys' bag and saying to the girl behind the counter,

SHOWERS

"Fill the bag with twenties bitch."

This should get you behind a table tennis table pretty quickly, that is of course on the condition that you plead guilty as charged. In this association you can also learn how to play pool and how to bite a pillow come lights out.

SORE BOTTOM

GREATEST ZITS

I a n M c C a n n

Since this is the first Zit Music column, a few words of introduction are in order. So reader, this is Greatest Zits, and Greatest Zits, this is the reader. I'm sure you'll get along very well.

About me: I'm an arrogant, ugly, frustrated musician with a chip on his shoulder, like every other music hack. My trophy cabinet is festooned with prizes, including 729nd in the Magazine Journalist Of The Year Awards 1986, and winner of the Nobel Prize For Being Slightly Rude About Indie Bands in 1990. Previous winners include Albert Einstein (1926) and Gary Pallister (1988). Also in the cabinet is a life-size replica of Neil Young's penis fashioned from emerald green silk by a devoted Japanese fan. Neil gave it to me when we met at our local video shop and I let him take out Beverly Hills Cop Two even though I was about to borrow it myself. And I can tell you a secret about Neil. The name on his Eagle Wines video club card is Vernon Young. So either Neil isn't his real name, or he's using his insane unknown half-brothers card. But that's enough about my exciting everyday life, let's get down to business.

As everyone knows, this is the summer of jazz-funk with Jamiroquai selling so many copies of his "Emergency On Planet Earth" (Orenda) LP that it's created a vinyl shortage, particularly in the Russian Urals, where vinyl is the staple diet for those too stupid to eat bread. But jazz-funk didn't begin or end with the brat in the hat. Those of us old enough remember the car stickers that said "jazz-funkers do it with horns" and we all bought our Don Blackman LPs just as Jamiroquai's trendy uncle must have done. Some of us even recall Incognito's debut album, 'Jazz - Funk', issued in 1938. Well Bluey and Co are back (again). And thank fuck if their supercool 'Still A Friend Of Mine' single (Talkin' Loud) is anything to go by. They're not the only ones blowing the mildly jazzy flugel horn. There is also much hype surrounding Acid Jazz's 5th anniversary, an unlikely event when you think that the label was all a bit of a lark originally, which is why it's saddled with such a dumb name.

Although the company generally lacks pop credibility, recentish compilations like 'Totally Wired 10' and 'Best Of Acid Jazz 2' show that there really is something going on in modland, even if they don't necessarily do it with horns. Finally, a question: why are Ozric Tentacles regarded as a crusty's delight when their recent Jurassic Shift (Dovetail) LP is another jazz-funk jam? Despite the fact that the music biz reckons you can't sell records in summer because everyone's on a Shag 18-46 holiday, there's no shortage of spunky records out at present. Female three piece Babes In Toyland have slipped out a hard edged fourth album, 'Painkillers' (Southern), titled after what you'll be taking after you've heard it. However, 10 songs are borrowed from last year's howling

'Fontanelle' live set. That leaves five 'new' tunes ('He's my thing' is a remake of an earlier opus), two of which are the standard, deliberately incompetent riff explosions the band are feared for, while the other three get weirder than Nancy Sinatra fronting Nirvana, particularly the broodin' 'Istigeit', in which our heroine Kat is told to do things by a "Stretchback bug skull beautiful devil God lover." That happened to me once on a train. It was an inspector chucking me off for having no ticket.

Pain Teens, the B52's of the grunge generation, continue their excursions into the dark side of the human condition and all round family entertainment with 'Destroy Me Lover' (Trance), 10 mildly sordid and decidedly off-beat observations, even if the clonking, honking percussion of 'Prowling' shows that, should Daniel Lanois get hold of them, they could be a kinky U2. Of course he won't, so fear not, he's probably reeling at the commonsense and suprisingly listenable variant on the usual U2 themes of 'Zooroopa' (Island), in which the slightly popular Irish group manage to sound like a real band despite being so big that they're actually a very rich country all on their own. Those expecting a repeat of 'Achtung Baby' will be able to see the resemblance, only this time Bonio and the Hedge have curbed the excesses, with Bonio managing not to shout all the way through, a suprising development after all these years. he's even stopped mentioning Dot Cotton in every song, and a guest spot from Johnny Cash on 'The Wanderer' is a real test of Bonio's mettle. There's life in the old dog biscuit yet.

Those wanting to join

Acid Head Arnie in dancefloor bliss are probably struggling a bit at present. They certainly won't find it in 'Adamski versus The Sentinels' (MCA), in which the former eleven future of music (smirk) makes a yawning dub album out of 'Space Jungle'. 'N-R-G' and, inevitably, 'Killer', with the help of Aswad's Drummie Zeb. A better choice might be the techno-logical 'Full On It' (deConstruction), or for those with milder tastes, 'Vorsprung Durch Logic', a top title for a Logic bel compilation. The most intriguing dance albums of the month come from Anglo-Asians, in the shape of Bally Sagoo's On The Mix, The Story So Far (Mango), in which a bhangra producer makes his major label debut, and 'Culture Clash', (Multitone) where various bhangra bods meet trance producers to devastating effect. Fans of older dance can forget 'Now That's What I Call Disco Badly Remixed 27' and instead hustle off to pick up 'The West End Story Volume 1' (Musidisc), eight top tunes from the legendary (i.e. old) New York disco label.

Up to now everything I'd heard from Smashing Pumpkins seemed about as interesting as examining someone else's turds, but I'm starting to understand 'Siamese Dream' (Hut), their second album. Since rumour has it that Nirvana are about to fuck up big-time there's a gap that these kings of riffery ought to be able to step right into. Produced by Butch Vig in that big noise in the next room way of his, 'Siamese Dream' works in every department. Tight, accessible, grimly powerful, and more energetic than their debut set, if MTV gets hold of this they'll be bigger than

King Kong's shoe size. Hey, that's enough enthusiasm, it's time to mock the rich and famous. How about the 'Peace Together' (Island) album, in which Peter Gabriel, Billy Bragg, Carter, Sinéad O'Connor, My Bloody Valentine, Rolf Harris and wannabe legendary '60's mod band Blur cover a load of crap tunes in aid of the Peace Together Trust, a charitable organisation for Northern Ireland. Or what about Billy Idol, whose 'Cyberpunk' album (Chrysalis), his first for a million years owing to a motorcycle accident every three days, really wouldn't be too bad were it not for the fact that Bill apparently believes that he's the first to do the cyberpunk thing and it smacks of pretentiousness despite BOTTLE UP YOUR PISS!!

Festival season is upon us, and the amusements are many. Will the Velvet Underground need a stairlift to make it on stage? Will the Manic Street Preachers die at the hands of travellers following press comments that sounded like the bleatings of a Tory MP; lazy, get a job etc. And if the Manics survive, let's just ask ourselves why their James has managed to grow a beard that looks exactly like someone's drawn it with iron fillings and a magnet. Where will the metallers throw their bottles of piss this year without Donnington? And how come young girls were flinging themselves helplessly at Lenny Kravitz at Glastonbury? Surely Lennie Bennett would be a better bet...

being the usual Idol babe-shag-agony stuff. That's what you get for living in LA. Here in Ilford, we know better.

Less laughable altogether is another overdue work from an ex-punk (of sorts), Debbie Harry. Her 'Depravation' (Chrysalis) almost offers the abdicated queen of pop as she ought to sound in the 90's, were it not for a distinctly stuck in the 80's, faintly wooden sound. Still, 'Stability' and the throwback-to-Blondie 'Rain' almost manage to rescue the affair. She certainly sounds old, however, compared to Shampoo, who are two former Manic Street Preacherettes, Sham and Poo. Actually, they're called Jacqui & Carrie, they're half the age of Ms Harry and they've got more attitude than a gorilla with gutsche if their 'Saddo' single is anything to go by. There's plenty happening in the rap world: Gumbo is a new band produced by Speech from Arrested Development, and their debut album, 'Dropping Soulful H2O on the Fiber' (Cooltempo) does, in fact, sound like, erm, it was produced by Speech from Arrested Development. Still it beats waiting for the next A-D LP. Really catchy title too, guys. Rougher stuff from Yo Yo, the 'Female Ice Cube', whose 'You Better Ask Somebody' (east west) is the baddest gangster rap yet from what I suppose is technically a moll. Fans of Harlow hip-hop, and there must be billions of you, can test the debut single from Collapsed Lung. Anyone who doesn't love their 'Thundersley Invacar' (Deceptive) needs therapy. While Kriss Kross and House Of Pain have hits, Cypress Hill are the real heavies of new US rap. A cursory listen to their second album, 'Black Sunday' (Ruff House), reveals that their astonishing debut LP was no fluke. Cypress' DJ Muggs, who also produces House Of Pain, drops some bizarre and baffling beats, while those whining, irritating voices, whose true ancestors are the weasels in Who Framed Roger Rabbit? continue to menace the listener while sounding particularly happy about getting stoned. It's like being threatened by a gun-toting pre-teen gang: you want to tell them to piss off and grow up, but they're altogether too dangerous.

Big drums, heavily riffing guitars, a pompous air. Guns n Roses? Aerosmith? Hang on, who's that female DJ butting in, asking whether or not an old star can still get it up? And then things get a bit cleverer than the Aeros could manage and you realise that ... shit, this is Pete Townshend's 'Psychoderelict' (Atlantic). And the old git is throwing together bits of what sounds like the Who live, old demos, and er, mini soap operas, rock theatre and fuck knows what else. Townshend clearly doesn't give a toss what anyone thinks, writes what he likes and still doodles about on dodgy synths as if it was 1972. Hence, he's the only rock star of his generation who sounds honest. 'Psychoderelict' is bizarre, eccentric Radio 4 play of a record, but at least it doesn't seem like a marketing scam.

Roland Orzabellnecessaryonabik e is still having hits as Tears For Fears, which leaves the runaway Curt Smith as ... Andrew Ridgely? Well, not exactly, although 'Soul On Board' (Vertigo) is a precious, sincere, fun-free item badly stuck in a mid '80's polished pop timewarp. Take up darts instead Curt. Please. A far cooler band escapee presents herself as The Juliana Hatfield Three for 'Become What You Are' (east west). The former Blake Babies bassist-singer leads her bare-essentials band through a dozen unforced songs, with her clean, nasal tones examining just why her sister is a bitch and how come some people can earn fortunes just for having a cute mug - so why am I skint? Sweet, scented and fresh, but certainly no soap. And on what bubbly note, see you in the same tub next month. ■

'PUT SOME SNOW ON IT!!!'

••••• THOSE WE LOVE TO HATE. •••••

This month our all star line up is a team of players that everyone, no matter what your team, absolutely positively hates. Don't be mistaken, they're not players who mildly irritate us - without exception they all stir up a deep seated loathing, and for no apparent reason either. You can't put your finger on it, you just know that the mere mention of their name is enough to turn any mild mannered soccer fan into a slobbering irrational killing machine •••••

The Line up

1. Ray Clemence
2. Lee Dixon
3. Alan Ball
4. Nayim
5. Tony Adams
6. Aiden from Eastenders
7. Paul Ince
8. Gary Lineker
9. Alan Clarke
10. Maradona
11. Mark Hughes

Manager: Graham Failure

Chairman: Alan, "My Word is my Bond" Sugar.

MEET THE TEAM

Ray Clemence

Hated by just about everyone at some time in the 70's. Always moaning about something. His few supporters will point to his larger than life presence in the box. Others however will point to his larger than life hooked nose. In fact viewed from the side it was difficult to tell if it was indeed his nose or whether he was just eating a banana.

Lee Dixon

Loathed by everyone apart from Graham Taylor. A crap defender with a short fuse and a hairstyle straight out of junior school. Bet your life his mum cuts it. That's when she's not buying his clothes for him. For all the mobility and turn of speed he displayed in America, it might just as well have been Brookside's Ron inside the shirt labelled Dixon.

Alan Ball

Universally disliked and no wonder! Of midget proportions, ginger, no eyebrows to speak of, squeaky voice and invented those fucking stupid boots that never caught on. 20 years on Graham Taylor called 'Bally' in to help England. Had much the same effect as calling Saddam Hussein in to help Kuwait.

Nayim

Horrid little man who got on everyone's tits at Spurs. Half Moroccan, half Jewish - The poor little mite didn't know whether he was coming or Cohen. English fans never took to him - perhaps because he only possessed a one word name. More likely because he had the tendency to cheat like fuck and the fact that he looked like Orville with a tan.

Tony Adams.

Hate him or loathe him but you can't ignore our Tony. Full of guts, pride, determination and lager. Following a recent investigation into drugs in football, poor Tony tested positive for Night Nurse. However his main role in the modern game is to act as a figure for opposing fans to chant 'What a waste of carrots' at..

Aiden out of Eastenders

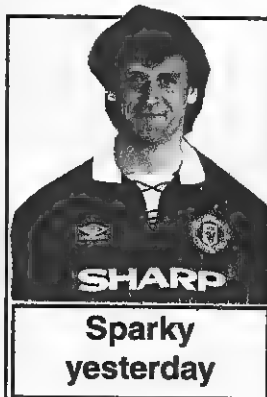

Very unconvincing footballer from Walford Town and general all round scrawny cunt. Reviled the whole country for his crap acting and pathetic Irish accent. Even so, Jack Charlton recently checked his availability for the Eire squad.

Paul Ince

Mr. Unpopular himself who's tried to make amends by playing well for England in the hope that we'd all forget the moaney old man he is. Well he hasn't worked has it! Always seems to have a horrible bit of dribble around his mouth too. And then he has the cheek to actually expect us to like him.

Gary Lineker.

Sparky yesterday

Probably the most unpopular footballer ever. Never a nice word to say about anyone. An uncouth loudmouth never afraid to air his controversial views. Sir Garfield Lineker is all that's bad in English football.

Alan Clarke

Goalpoacher of the 70's Leeds side - One of the most hated teams ever. Clarke was positively vile. Always got simple tap in goals, then would celebrate by nonchalantly raising his arm, finger in the air as if to say "Look at me everyone, I did that - and I'm not even going to get excited about it". At which point everyone would be overwhelmed by a strong desire to kick his smug fucking head in.

Maradona

Without doubt, this cheating, pouting, pontificating little runt is a cunt of the highest order. Search as hard as you like but you'll find no fork in his family tree. And with names now appearing on the backs of footballers, Argentina have got a problem. How to fit 'Cuntbubble' across the back of his shirt.

Mark Hughes

Next to Myra Hindley, old sparky ranks as possibly Manchester's most unpopular inhabitant. His knack of shoving his arse into defenders and the rolling over and appealing for a penalty hasn't exactly endeared him to fans. Neither has his stupid perm and he's Welsh for fucks sake. We rest our case.

AT LAST IT'S HERE THE DOORBELL THAT TELLS YOU TO

FUCK OFF!

Fed up with door to door salesmen, Jehovahs Witnesses, or the git from next door popping round for yet more Gold Blend?
Then the GTD (Tapeless) Sampling Doorbell is what you're looking for.

The doorbell comes with four pre-recorded examples, including a standard door chime, just to give you some ideas, and two messages that you can record and change as often as you like.

So why spend over thirty pounds on a simple musical door chime when, for ONLY £22.95 (plus £1.50 p+p) you can own the most versatile
